Australia

There are four different index ETFs that could be used in Australia to buy and hold, reinvest dividends and invest regular retirement savings. These ETFs are listed in the book in the Appendix for Australian Readers, SINGLE INDEX ETF, BUY-AND-HOLD STRATEGY (Chapter 13)

Other Countries

Use ETFs that track the main benchmark indices of the applicable stock exchange. Seek those that have been listed for as long as possible, preferably longer than 10 years, have the lowest annual fees and have the highest liquidity. For example: London Stock Exchange FTSE100 ETF: ISF.

Examples of other main benchmark indices are: Germany, DAX; Canada, TSX 60; France, CAC 40; Brazil, Bovespa; Italy, FTSE MIB; South Africa, FTSE/JSE 40.
